Essay that evaluates the course

This semester, the English class was very helpful. It gave me important skills for finding a job and starting a career. The course focused on writing final project reports, making CVs and cover letters, preparing for job interviews, and learning job hunting techniques. Here is what I learned and how it helped me.

I Learned how to write final project reports in a clear and organized way. It was very useful. It taught me how to present my work and results step by step. Knowing how to write these reports will help me in school and at work, where I need to explain my projects clearly.

Also Creating CVs and cover letters was one of the most practical parts of the course. I learned how to show my skills and experiences that match the job I want. Writing a cover letter that is specific to each job was also important. This shows employers that I am really interested in their job and have the right skills. Practicing this made me more confident in presenting myself on paper.

To not Forget Preparing for job interviews was another key part of the course. I learned common interview questions and how to answer them well. I also worked on my body language and learned to research the company before the interview. This preparation will helps me make a good impression during interviews.

Learning different job hunting techniques was very helpful. I learned about using online job sites and networking with people. Using LinkedIn to connect with professionals and find job opportunities was very useful. I also learned about going to job fairs and meeting industry professionals. These techniques will help me find jobs more effectively.

Overall, the skills I learned in this semester's English course are very useful. The course helped me get ready for the job market by combining theory with practical skills. I am now better prepared to find jobs and start my career. The course improved my writing, presentation, and job hunting skills.

In conclusion, the Semester 4 English course was very valuable. It gave me important tools for my professional life. The lessons on writing reports, making CVs and cover letters, preparing for interviews, and job hunting techniques will help me as I start my career. The course has made me more confident and ready for the job market.

Essay about GEIW

The Innovation Week at ENSET Mohammedia, organized by Université Hassan II de Casablanca, is an important event. It takes place from May 15th to May 18th, 2024. This event is about bringing new ideas and using artificial intelligence (AI) to help businesses grow.

The first day starts with a welcome speech by the university president, Monsieur Omar Bouattane. He talks about the goals and importance of the event. There is also a presentation of the program and different clubs at the school. A workshop on innovation and entrepreneurship is also held.

The event has several main themes and activities. One big theme is how AI can help with innovation. There is a conference that talks about different ways AI can be used and how it affects business management. This helps people understand the connection between technology and business.

There are many competitions and workshops. The Hackathon and Ideathon are competitions where people work on new ideas and solutions within 24 hours. These activities encourage teamwork and fast thinking. There are also workshops that teach how to create business models and use smart technologies, like smart supply chains and smart car designs. Other competitions like Speakathon and Tech Pitch help people improve their speaking and pitching skills, which are important for business.

The event also has interactive and social activities. There are workshops, expert consultations, and team-building exercises. These activities help people learn more and make new connections. There are also health and well-being initiatives, like videos that talk about the dangers of smoking and drugs. This shows that the event cares about the participants' overall well-being.

Besides work-related activities, there are also cultural and recreational events. For example, there is a choir performance and a ping pong tournament. These activities provide a break from work and help participants relax.

In conclusion, the Innovation Week at ENSET Mohammedia is a very important event. It combines technology, business, learning, and fun. This event helps participants develop new ideas and prepares them for the future of business and technology.
